TRUTH TRIUMPHS

Norway Citizens Testify for the Public Benefit.

A truthful statement of a Norway citizen, given in his own words, should convince the most skeptical about the merits of Doan's Kidney Pills. If you suffer from backache, nervousness, sleeplessness, urinary disorders or any form of kidney ills, use a tested kidney medicine.

A Norway citizen tells of Doan's Kidney Pills.

Could you demand more convincing proof of merit?

E. C. Libby, deputy sheriff, Sanborn St., Norway, says: "I had backache and it annoyed me to do anything. Not only this, but my head ached very often. I noticed little specks before my eyes and my sight blurred. I used various medicines, but it was left for Doan's Kidney Pills to give me lasting results. Since using them I have had no return of the complaint."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Libby had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

THE NATIONAL GUARD.

Pretty soft for all day hikin' through the stings in' alkali.

Pretty new to beans an' bacon and a total lack o' pie!

They will do a heap o' dinkin' when they hear the bullets sing.

What's ahead o' blood an' trouble, but they're goin' just the same!

Sure they're goin'! From all corners of the city, far an' near.

They are a-movin' one another to be first to answer "Here!"

Every man with eyes wide open, not a one that doesn't know

Just exactly what is waitin' on the way they've got to go.

Pretty soft an' shy o' trainin', but they only are afraid

That the word that sends 'em forward may be too blame long delayed.

Time will put the trainin' in 'em; time will learn 'em how to take Appetite will cause their rations, when there ain't no choice o' food.

An' you'll get it good! But the grin an' nerve an' courage that meet

When the grin an' nerve an' courage that meet When they won't find 'em on the border—they are takin' them along!

THE FLAG OF BETSY ROSS.

Long are the years that it drifts across—The tale that is dear and dim.

Of Washington's visit to Betsy Ross And the flag that she made for him.

The tale of the flag with the radiant folds And the stars in the field of blue

And well have we cherished all it holds That has thrilled us through and through.

And well do we treasure still the scene The breeze that blew from the door

Where the fragrant breeze comes through, The Red and the White and the Blue.

And the eyes of the seamstress, what do they see? In the stars she has circled there!

The sign of a Union that shall be So the vision grows in her needle dies

Through hurrying hours, and then, When the sun is low in the Western sky,

The General comes again. All this we have read; but who can tell

What was his fate, and what befell? When the General rode away?

O, where did it fly and where did it fade, And where was it last hailed down?

The flag that Betsy, the seamstress, made In the quiet old Quaker town?

Did it fly perchance in the battle smoke, The target of shot and shell?

Did it hear the crash when the enemy broke, And the groans of the men who were slain?

Did it wave o'er the ranks of buff and blue, And the blood-red banner of Britain feed

When the blood-red banner of Britain feed Did it fly, perchance, in the favoring breeze,

On a ship that sailed afar? Beyond the farthest sweep of seas

Where the last of the Quakers dwelt, Did it know the lash of the roaring gales,

And the kiss of the salty foam? Did it flutter aloft when the weathered sails

NEW PERFECTION KITCHEN PRIMER

LESSON 6

What Makes Dish Washing Easy?

Plenty of hot water.
What makes plenty of hot water?
The New Perfection Kerosene Water Heater makes plenty of hot water—ready whenever you want it.
But doesn't it cost a lot?
No, it costs less than it would to keep a hot fire going in the range, and the kitchen stays cool. If you have a New Perfection Water Heater and a New Perfection Oil Cook Stove, you can save no end of fuss and bother.
New Perfection oil-burning devices owe their success to the famous long blue chimney burner, which converts every drop of oil into clear, intense heat. The 1916 models have the new patented reversible glass reservoir and many other improvements.

WAR HORSES WE HAVE SOLD

Nearly 750,000 horses and mules have been purchased in the United States for foreign account since Sept. 1, 1914. While this number is but a small percentage of America's horse and mule stock, the business has nevertheless been a tremendous one. Twenty-two horses make up an average freight or express load. That means that 34,000 carloads have been shipped from the country to the coast, taking no account of short local shipments. These horses have traveled no less than an average of 1,000 miles each. The 34,000 cars earned for the railroad and express companies $5,000,000.

It was a lucky horse that voyaged from farm to steamboat in 3 or 4 days. Six million dollars for food in stables, markets, stockyards and concentration camps is a low estimate of the cost. Turned out in pens such as are used at our Chicago stockyards, the horses would require for comfortable housing 37,500 pens. With the necessary alleys, feed barns, hay sheds and railroad facilities, these pens would cover a ground floor area a mile in width by 2 miles in length—a space twice as large as the Union Stock Yard of Chicago, which accommodates 506,000 animals of different sizes.

Placed side by side in one long row of single stalls the war horses would stretch from Chicago's city limits to Grand Island, Neb. In marching order, close formation, the 300,000 cavalry and 2,500 full batteries of 180 horses each, would reach from Chicago to Boston.

We have left 40 times as many horses as we have gone, but we should remember that those which have gone are practically all of the best of three types. There will be a brilliant market for these three types for several years after the European conflict is over, and there will be time enough in which to get a colt well started long before that devoutly wished-for peace comes into sight.

ROAD BOOK FOR 1916.

The Maine Automobile Road Book for 1916 has just been issued for its fifth year by the Maine Automobile Association, and it is now being sent out to the 3,000 members of that organization, as well as to the general public. This year's book contains 400 pages, making it a very much larger volume than the 1915 edition. It has about 220 routes, covering all of Maine, the greater part of New Hampshire, most of Massachusetts, as well as New Brunswick and Quebec. A new feature of this year is the through routes between New York City, southwestern New England and Maine. These are given in both directions. This year's volume has about one-third more routes than any previous edition, and in addition contains the famous Pine Tree Tour now followed annually by hundreds of tourists. A large number of one-way routes of 1915 are this year given in both directions.

A new and decidedly valuable feature this year is a series of 14 city and town street-maps, showing the principal entrances and exits. Another new feature is a greatly enlarged general road map showing all of the automobile roads in Maine.

An important contribution is an article on what the Maine State Highway Commission has accomplished and what it intends to do this year, by Paul D. Sargent, chief engineer of the Maine State Highway Commission. Other special features are a digest of the Maine Automobile laws, the Maine fish and game laws for 1916, Maine laws regulating the setting of fires on forest and timberland, the department entitled Facts about Maine, greatly enlarged and improved, the through routes of travel put in a form which for simplicity can hardly be equalled, ferry timetables, regulations for motorists entering Canada, and many other.

The series of indexes are the most complete and most simple to be found in any road book, every minute detail of the volume being covered.

The book is fully illustrated with new pictures, and is attractively bound in a green waterproof leatherette, with specially designed covers. It contains three large touring maps, enclosed in a pocket in the back of the book, and every point of interest is fully described in the descriptive matter with which the book is well filled. The book is published by the Touring Bureau of the Maine Automobile Association, 12 Monument Square, Portland, Me.

Eye Enables Typewriter to Copy Automatically.

A self-operating eye, which when attached to a typewriter enables that machine to copy any printed matter properly set before it, is the invention of a Brooklyn electrical engineer. The eye consists of a large sphere having a lens on its front side and a field corresponding to a retina on which are situated a large number of selenium cells connected with a source of electric current. The eye is mounted on and moves with the carriage of the typewriter and is so focused that the image of but one letter is reflected in it at a time. Popular Mechanics Magazine in its July number tells how the machine operates.

The Federal Horticultural Board have issued a notice of quarantine on account of gipsy moth or brown-tail moth (quarantine No. 25, relating to coniferous trees) effective after July 1. Towns in this section: Dixfield, Canton, Hartford, Peru, Rumford, Milton, Franklin, Woodstock, Sumner, Paris, Buckfield, Hebron, Oxford, Otisfield, Harrison, Norway, Waterville, Albany, Greenwood, Bethel, Madison, Stoneham, Lovell, Sweden, Fryeburg and Hanover.

The Whole Family Would Enjoy This

GET your mind off the butcher, the baker and the rent collector. Pull yourself out of the daily grind—and with a few days' let up, a few deep breaths and a short rest, you will get back into the harness FRESHER, and you'll feel better for it. The Community Chautauqua will give you a chance for a little easing up these hot summer days. Knock off some of the work and get under the tent for a good physical and mental brace.

Brought Right to Your Door

AND there's the family too. Traveling in hot weather isn't altogether pleasant, but a vacation BROUGHT RIGHT TO YOUR DOOR isn't bad, is it? The big music of this five day festival of music ought to appeal to them. And if they "never liked lectures" the Chautauqua's got a surprise for them! And then there are the entertainment numbers, all these ten great programs for a few cents each. Remember a season ticket cuts the cost in half, and a season ticket bought now costs 25 cents less than it will cost a little later.

The Junior Chautauqua promises a world of delights for the boys and girls. It will be in the forenoon, and they will play games, have story telling hours, athletic events and a host of things that will keep them busy and happy every minute.

A Whole Family and Community Affair

THE Chautauqua is essentially an affair for the whole family and the entire community. The committee's hope is to make it an event of special interest to father, mother and the "kiddies." There are numbers on the program that will have a special appeal to the business man, the farmer, the lawyer, preacher, doctor, manufacturer, the clerk, the laboring man and the bank president. The mother will find many features especially helpful, and the boys and girls will get a little different look at life through these great inspirational numbers. And there will be entertainment for every one.

A handsomely illustrated program booklet has been issued that gives full particulars, prices of tickets, description and list of talent and the program for each day.

Wouldn't it be a fine thing to give yourself and the family a five day treat right here at home? Then get season tickets and attend the

THE THRICE-A-WEEK EDITION OF THE NEW YORK WORLD

Practically a Daily at the Price of a Weekly. No other Newspaper in the world gives so much at so low a price.

There has never been a time when a newspaper was more needed in the household. The great war in Europe has now entered its second year, with no promise of an end for a long time. These are world-shaking events, in which the United States, willing or unwilling, has been compelled to take a part. No intelligent person can ignore such issues.
The Presidential contest also will soon be at hand. Already candidates for the nomination are in the field, and the campaign, owing to the extraordinary character of the times, will be of supreme interest. No other newspaper will inform you with the promptness and cheapness of the Thrice-A-Week edition of the New York World.
THE THRICE-A-WEEK WORLD'S regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year, and this pays for 156 papers.
We offer this unequalled newspaper and
The Norway (Oxford Co.,) Me., Adver-

WHAT CATARRH IS

It has been said that every third person has catarrh in some form.

Science has shown that nasal catarrh often indicates a general weakness of the body; and local treatments in the form of snuffs and vapors do little, if any good.

To correct catarrh you should treat its cause by enriching your blood with the oil-food in Scott's Emulsion which is a medicinal food and a building-tonic, free from alcohol or any harmful drugs. Try it.

GODMOTHER'S MOVEMENT.

Soldiers Gone to the Front will Receive Words of Cheer.

A movement has been started whereby all soldiers who have gone to the front who are not leaving some mother, wife or sister at home, may receive cheer from some woman who is willing to act as a Godmother to him.

This will insure every soldier at the front receiving cheering letters, comfort bags, books or any sort of cheer which his Godmother may be able to send him.
Many of course will send only letters, but even these will be received with pleasure by the boys who are away from home, perhaps in many cases as much as some greater gift which some may be able to give.

The idea of this service comes from France, where the women have done such patriotic work for their soldiers with remarkable results, for besides bringing cheer to many lonely soldier boys, it gives to many women a chance for patriotic expression which they might not be able to perform in any other way.

Through the presidents of women's clubs, this idea is expected to spread and the women of Maine will, no doubt, not be behind hand in forwarding the good work. The service expected from the women is only the kind that any woman would give who has sent a son or brother to the front, and would be of great worth both to the giver and the one who receives.

Birthday of Republic.

This Fourth of July was the 140th anniversary of the nation's natal day.

There exists among some iconoclastic people a disposition to adversely criticize our national holiday, but they are very few in number. Hardly a single American at home or abroad who does not feel his patriotic impulse stirred by the memories of the glorious Fourth. It is indeed a glorious ideal which we celebrate. It is in fact the beginning of the greatest political experiment in the interest of the masses of mankind ever undertaken in the history of the world.

Few there were among the signers of the Declaration of Independence who had even a partial conception of the possible results of their experiment. The world prior to 1776 had been governed by the rules of kingscraft and priest-craft. The human mind had been enslaved by the superstitious growing out of the debasing beliefs in the rule of alleged divinity of the two classes of men. Release from the thrall of these beliefs the mind of man began to act freely.

The act of the Fourth of July, 1776, in Philadelphia influenced the men of all races and will continue to influence them throughout all the coming ages.
It is not too much to say that the amazing development of the physical sciences in the nineteenth century is indirectly due to the Declaration. In the strictly material improvement of social conditions the advance has been almost equally marked.

DINNER OF WATER

DADDYLONGLEGS.

By D. Crommett Clark.

I wish to make a record of a natural history observation which fell to me during the cruise of a vacation spent in a pedestrian tour in the Canadian Province of New Brunswick.

On September 11, 1916, I was walking from Lepreau to Musquash, and something more than half-way of the ten miles between the two hamlets, stopped at a brook on the northern slope of a hill, for a drink of water.

The wooden plank bridge was too high for the taking of a drink from it with a dipper, so a passage was worked through the thick bushes to a point some six or eight rods above, where a pool about five feet across was fed by a trickling little current, while the main stream rushed down on the farther side.

A nice large smooth rock afforded a seat with my back to the grassy bank, while feet were stretched out to the somewhat lower rock just beyond.

After a rest of fifteen minutes or so, I was about to re-embark upon a dead leaf which was slowly turning in the otherwise imperceptible eddy in the center of the pool.

The pool was inhabited by six of those queer specimens of animal life—probably just-arrived—known as water daddylonglegs, skippers, water horses, and perhaps by other names.

They were darting restlessly about the pool with their feet resting lightly on the water.

No purpose was apparent in their moving about, until one of them humped against the worm on his last refuge.

The insect drew back three inches or so, and then darted directly at the worm, following his impact by instant retreat.

The worm flung his head around in the direction of the blow, and found nothing. The insect kept up his blows and retreats. I could not see the worm close enough to determine whether he tried to bite his tormentor, but that was the first suggestion by his head's frantic efforts to reach the source of those blows.

A thick, whitish fluid began to ooze from punctures in the worm's sides. The assailant, aided by the eddy, had attacked the victim from every direction, and the poor worm abandoned his efforts to reach the destroyer, and was writhing, seemingly in helpless and aimless agony. The slayer continued his attacks, but made his retreats less quickly.

Another water daddylonglegs bumped against the worm, and drew back, as if to attack in the same way that the first had done.

The possessor of the worm darted around his prey and launched himself at the intruder. He struck the second daddylonglegs on the side, and bowed him over, so that for the moment he lay struggling in the water with feet flourishing frantically in the air.

He soon regained his feet and promptly evacuated the neighborhood of the worm.

The first of all water daddylonglegs turned to his finally noticed victim, and placed himself astride the partially submerged body.

With head tipped down and pressed against the green skin of the slaughtered worm, he stood in a huddled attitude and apparently without moving for three or four minutes.

Then he went away, skipping over the water after the fashion of his tribe.

He had partially risen to go, when the other insect began to dart across the pool to the body of the worm. It seemed as if they did so deliberately and not by accident, though each had to make several tries before finding it.

One would hurry three-fourths of the way across the pool, turn back and again pass the worm, but not so far, and turn again.

Not one of them found the apparent object of his search in a single trip directly from the edge of the pool to its center, where the food supply was slowly turning round and round.

Within about ten or twelve minutes all of them reached the spot, and all repeated the movements of the first water daddylonglegs, by hovering over the green object that was a hundred times larger than themselves, and so one's head was pressed for a few minutes against the green skin.

At one time two were peacefully standing over the prostrate worm together.

How they knew of the dead worm puzzled me. It was satisfied that it was not by sight, for the first and second insects had plainly bumped against the worm by accident, and the later insects had been unable to find the food except by experiments in the matter of direction.

I lifted the worm out of the water with a stick, and tried to determine if there was any odor which may have guided them, but the evidence was negative.

Human nostrils are not keen enough, anyway, to afford very valuable scientific information on the matter of odors. It may have been from the worm's bodily juices spreading over the surface of the water, though I could detect no discoloration to indicate that.

If the knowledge was waterborne, the majority of them caught by it do so by their means of a sense of feeling or of taste? I give it up.

I had spent more than half an hour at watching the natural act of one life maintaining itself by the taking of another life. As I trudged toward Musquash village with the knapsack on my sweating back, the war in Europe was far away, but the water insects and the worm were a present object-lesson of the tragedy of the world.

There came to me a consciousness of having heard or read of someone who had by a struggle in lowly nature been moved to feelings such as were stirring me. At last it came; I was turning over in my head not merely thoughts but some of the language used by Thoreau in his story of the battle of the ants. I knew how that other man had felt years before, and he would have understood how I felt on that September afternoon—Forest and Stream.

NEW FACES ON SPECIE.

Dimes, quarters and half-dollars of new design will be minted after July 1, Secretary McAdoo announced at Washington recently.

For the first time since 1891, a change will be effected in these pieces.

The face of the new half-dollar will bear a full length of Liberty, with a background of the American flag flying in the breeze.

The goddess is striding toward the dawn of a new day, carrying the laurel and oak branches, symbols of civil and military glory.

The reverse shows an eagle perched high upon a mountain crag, wings unfolded. Growing from a rift in the rock is a sapling of mountain pine, symbols of America.

The design of the 25-cent piece is intended to typify the awakening of the country to its own protection, Secretary McAdoo said.

Liberty, a full length figure, is shown stepping toward the country's gateway, bearing upraised a shield from which the covering is being drawn.

The right hand bears an olive branch of peace. Above the head is the word "Liberty," and below the feet is the word "1916." The reverse bears a figure of an eagle in full flight, wings extended, and the inscription, "United States of America," and "E Pluribus Unum."

Both the half-dollar and the quarter bear the phrase "In God We Trust." The design of the dime is simple. Liberty with a winged cap is shown on the fore-side and on the reverse is a design of a bundle of rods, and a battle-axe, symbolical of unity, "Wherein Lies the Nation's Strength."

Swimming.

To many a man confined in some stuffy office or factory, the boyhood memories of the old swimming hole have a glamor of romance. Nothing seems to stand out more clearly in his memory as a joy of youth.

The cold refreshment of the familiar stream, such a relief after a wilting hot day, brings boy nature to the highest point of excitement. It stirs and in no other place is there any such display of boisterous spirits.

The yelling of boys of the ball game has in it the zest of competitive struggle, forecasting the carives and emulations of later life.

The pure animal ecstasy of a bunch of young swimmers making the region resound with their gleeful cries seems like human nature's pure exuberance under the most refreshing caress of Mother Earth.

In properly conducted swimming lessons there is a wonderfully fine physical development. The boy comes to his swimming hole, his shoulders bent over by study at a desk.

In swimming he is simply compelled to practice deep breathing against the water's strong resistance. No other exercise can be equally useful in developing the chest and heart.

It was shown in one college test that 34 men made an average gain of eight pounds weight and 23 cubic inches of lung capacity, by taking four swimming lessons a week for six weeks.

Unfortunately a good many boys never learn to swim. They may be located at a distance from any suitable river, lake, or pool.

On vacations they are relegated to the inglorious task of guarding the clothes of their companions. They are a peril to everyone in later life the moment they enter any kind of a boat. They miss a mainly sport and the purest fun of boyhood.

Families, inconveniently located as respects this sport should make every effort to remedy the deficiency with good instructors for their children.
